

ANGIER DUKE HURT IN AUTO SMASH; FACE BADLY CUT

Tobacco Man's Car Skids Into Electric Light Pole Near Southampton Home.

Announcement was made to-day at the Southampton, L. I., Hospital that Angier B. Duke, No. 511 Fifth Avenue, son of Benjamin Duke of the millionaire tobacco family, will have recovered in a few days from the injuries he received last evening about 7 o'clock when the automobile he drove crashed into an electric light pole near his summer cottage in Gin Lane and the beach, Southampton, L. I.

Mr. Duke drives with one hand, as the other was shot off while he was on a shooting trip several years ago. He had just left the cottage to motor to Southampton Post Office. The car skidded on the wet road and crashed into the pole, which was broken off four feet above the ground.

Mr. Duke was showered with glass and severely cut on the face. He also received bruises.

The accident occurred near the Coast Guard Station and members of the coast patrol summoned an ambulance. Mr. Duke was taken to the hospital and treated by Dr. Joseph S. Wheelwright of New York.

Mr. Duke, who is thirty-seven, is widely known socially here and in Philadelphia. His wife was Miss Cordelia Biddle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle. They were married in 1915 and divorced in 1921.

WOULD'N'T LET STRATON TALK AT BOXING BOUT

Minister Not Allowed to Address Crowd at Show.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 26.—The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church of New York City, who is conducting a revival service here, was barred from the arena last night where he had gone with fifteen singers, to an announced attempt to "bring a message of God's word to those people," just before the main bout of the weekly boxing card.

The members of the party were met at the door by Jack Lewis, manager of the club, and Dr. Timothy P. Maloney, inspector for the State Boxing Commission. Dr. Maloney told the clergyman the State law forbids speeches made from the ring. Dr. Straton accepted the decision.

BAFFIN EXPLORERS ON THE WAY HOME

Capt. MacMillan Reports "Fine Trip" by Radio.

FREEPORT, Me., Aug. 26.—The Baffin Land expedition, in command of Donald B. MacMillan, which left Boston a year ago, on the schooner Idw-coin, is on its way home. A radio message from the explorer received here to-day by his sister said: "On our way home. Fine trip, all well." The message was sent by way of Fogo Island, near the northeastern end of Newfoundland.

MISS BAKER NOW SAYS SHE'LL WED THIS MONTH

Declares She Expects to Be Very Happy With McCormick.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Latest announcement by Mary L. Baker of Chicago is that she and Alister McCormick will be married "before the end of the month, somewhere in London."

Miss Baker is staying with friends near Glasgow, Scotland. To a message over the telephone, in which she was told "I hope you will be very happy, Miss Baker," she replied, "Thank you, I think I shall be happy."

Worrying Women Make Progress By Driving Men, Lecturer Says

Feminine Happiness Rare, Says Professor, Who Calls
15 to 50 the Age That Finds Them Dangerous.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—It was the worrying of discontented women that made men get on, declared Dr. Josiah Oldfield, lecturing to the Edoetic Club, on "Can a Woman Be Happy?" says the Daily Mail.

Perhaps the happiest women, Dr. Oldfield said, were the widows of really bad men, for they did not waste force in pursuit of a phantom.

Few women knew anything of the happy, toilsome road leading to wealth. Their chances were lost by the gambling element, which lured them hope for a stroke of luck or a prize draw in the marriage market. Women lost their share of life, health and beauty in a selfish search for a panacea for personal attractiveness. Their search was not for means to make all women beautiful but to make one woman especially beautiful. They lost happiness because they had only one eye on the goal.

Under fifteen and over fifty were the happiest periods in a woman's life, because then she might be more or less absorbed in the pursuit of worthy ideals. Too often, between those ages, woman was discontented and dangerous.

She often set out on an impossible quest—the search for an ideal husband. Centuries strewn with broken hearts, wrecked lives and shattered idols did not discourage the quest.

The lecturer defined happiness as the absorbing pursuit of a worthy and attainable ideal and the objects whose attractions were the most absorbing as power, knowledge, wealth, health and beauty. Women, owing to their limitations of thought concept and to their lack of imagination and overflow of emotion, failed to travel along any of those great highways of happiness.

In place of the pursuit of knowledge, women were carried away by the lower spirit of inquisitiveness. It was not in the search of knowledge that Eve ate the forbidden fruit or that Bluebeard's locked room was opened.

man on the liner President Van Buren en route to England on June 25. On examination of Dr. George Farquhar, ship's surgeon, brought out that the original certificate signed by Dr. Farquhar, who now accuses the captain of striking Baxter and causing his death, gave the cause of death as "acute mania morphia." The hearings will be resumed on Monday.

Wife of Friend Refuses to Go for Ride—Shot Follows.

Joseph Raffo, twenty-four, No. 230 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, rang the bell at No. 148 Knickerbocker Avenue, Ridgewood, early to-day and asked Mrs. Mary Orlando, twenty-five, to see her husband. Mrs. Orlando told him her husband hadn't come in from work.

"Come, get in the car and take a ride," he invited.

"I'll do nothing of the kind," she replied. "You get away from here."

Mrs. Orlando closed the door and ran back to her two children she heard a shot. Raffo was found later with a bullet in his chest, but doctors in St. Catherine's Hospital said he was not seriously hurt. He was placed under arrest for having the revolver. The police said he was drinking.

VICTIM OF BULLET IS HELD BY POLICE

Michael Mancuso May Know About Brooklyn Shooting, Cops Think.

Michael Mancuso, twenty years old, of No. 2921 First Avenue, went to the Presbyterian Hospital at 3 A. M. to-day to have a bullet wound in his left forearm dressed. He said he was walking at 73d Street and First Avenue when the bullet hit him, and that he saw no one and heard no shot.

There was a shooting in Brooklyn earlier in the night, and on the theory that he might know something about it he was detained in the East 67th Street Station.

DEAD BABY IN STREET CRUSHED BY AUTOS

Body Run Over Many Times Before It Was Found.

Policeman McCarthy of the West 47th Street Station found a bundle in 52d Street near Tenth Avenue at 6:30 A. M. to-day. Tearing off the newspapers he saw human flesh and took the bundle to the station.

It was the body of a week-old infant, probably thrown from an automobile. It had been run over an many times during the night. It was impossible to determine its sex.

Thackeray said somewhere that to dress with good humour was the best way to appear in company.

There is a fragrance about simplicity and good humour with good sense that is welof it is to subtract from an evening's enjoyment for one's self and others.

First actual Paris Models from the AUGUST OPENINGS come first to Wanamaker's

PRESENTED MONDAY IN THE FASHION SALONS

Exquisite reproductions, at much less than the cost of the originals, may be ordered from our own workrooms.

Among the first opening was that of Jeanne Hallee. Her things were new and fascinating. Every one said so. A special representative brought over these beautiful things as personal luggage on the Aquitania and with them new hats from Reboux and Suzy and a new three-piece costume from Miller Soeurs. With the models came

This Personal Note from our Paris Office

Paris, 11 August, 1922

The first models for Winter arrived at our Bureau at 5:30 P. M. But, then it was discovered that quite the most important gown was missing. What were we to do—the "Aquitania" sails tomorrow.
We waited and waited. At nine o'clock it came, for Mme. Anna had given us her word that we would have it tonight. We believe that these models will be the first to convey to America the Glorious New Message

Another unique feature is that these models are from a famous old Maison (much favored by the Parisiennes) that has been reborn—and they have the spirit of the exquisite new Paris. The name Jeanne Hallee is well known to you —and so is that of the new star, ANNA, for she became famous in another of the great houses of Paris.

It was not necessary to ask ANNA from where she had drawn her inspiration. It was obvious at a glance that it had come from the magnificent arts of

Persia and Indo-China

Then, too, there was a fascinating little coat which formed a part of a costume—
"that," said Anna, "is just Paris!"
